Fund Manager's Report

After the month-end's slight correction, the local bond market threatened to continue the rally after Standard and Poor's (S&P) put the Philippines' credit ratings to Investment grade from BB+ to BBB- with an outlook stable. Yields fell 10 to 20 basis points lower across the belly and the long end of the curve supported by April inflation that slowed to 2.6% year-on-year from March's 3.2% annual pace.

The Bureau of Treasury awarded higher-than previous and higher-than-expected Treasury Bills on its auction last May 6, 2013. The 91/182/364-day treasury bills were awarded on the average of 0.217%, 0.398% and 0.602% respectively. The total bids submitted did not meet the PHP 20 billion aggregate offer.

On May 23, 2013, the BTr is scheduled to offer 5-year Treasury Bonds with an aggregate offer of PHP 30.0 billion. Market is expected to trade side ways as participants wait for new leads.
