Sharpe Ratio (Risk Free Rate = 0.1218%):	0.31

Volatility is a measure of fluctuation of the NAVpu. Higher volatility means higher potential for gains or losses. Duration measures the sensitivity of the portfolio to interest rate movements. The higher the duration, the more the NAVpu will change with interest rate fluctuation. The Sharpe Ratio is a measure of risk-adjusted return. The higher the Sharpe, the higher the return per unit of risk. Risk-free rate used to compute the Sharpe ratio is the 1yr US TBill rate.

Fund Manager's Report

The FOMC in its March 2014 meeting gave a new forward guidance outlook on when it will raise short term interest rates. The Fed said that it would no longer use a quantitative threshold of 6.5% unemployment rate but instead stick to combination of economic data indicators. The Fed also continued to trim down QE by $10Billion to $55Billion.

As a result, US Treasuries continued to trade the range of 2.75% to 2.68% due to continued market speculation that the recent weakness in the job numbers print can be caused by an extended occurrence of bad weather in the US. ROPs thus continued to track closely the movements in the US Treasuries with the long end of the curve trading by a range of 5-10bps.
