Volatility, Past 360 days	25.42%
Duration:	1.31
Sharpe Ratio (Risk-Free Rate = 0.590%):	0.34

Volatility is a measure of fluctuation of the NAVpu. Higher volatility means higher potential for gains or losses. Duration measures the sensitivity of the portfolio to interest rate movements. The higher the duration, the more the NAVpu will change with interest rate fluctuation. The Sharpe Ratio is a measure of risk-adjusted return. The higher the Sharpe, the higher the return per unit of risk. Risk-free rate used to compute the Sharpe ratio is the 1yr TBill rate.

Fund Manager's Report

The PSE index was down by 5.7% for November, from a 6.4% gain the previous month, on the back of tapering fears and reforms encouraging movement of funds to China/HK. Foreign investors continued to sell for a fourth straight month. GDP growth for the 3rd quarter slowed to 7%, from last quarter's 7.6%, led by sustained domestic demand and growth from the manufacturing sector. However, government spending slowed from highs recorded due to the midterm elections. Inflation increased to 2.9% in October, a slight increase from the previous month's 2.7%. The BSP revised its inflation forecasts upward for this year and next. Inflation is seen to average 3.2% this year and 4.5% in 2014, from 3.0% and 4.0%, respectively.

BTR rejected all bids for the 5 YR bond auction with market players bidding at an average of 3%-3.25%. The lack of fresh supply kept banks constantly on the look out for outlets to deploy their excess cash despite a slight uptick on inflation.

Beginning of November expected more flows (P400B) coming out from SDA. However, yields continued to inch up as market players remain defensive and light as concerns on QE tapering plagued the market once again. With limited activity in the peso bond market and a depreciating peso currency, yields were up by 15-20 bps across the curve from a month ago due to profit taking as data from the US point to improved economic activity. Market players, will continue to watch developments in the US for further direction.
