OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The month of March saw yields declining amidst abundant liquidity and persistent global growth woes that plague market sentiment. Appetite was mostly on the 10 years above. Yields from the belly to the long end of the curve went down approximately 20 bps as yields on the local bonds tracked movements on the US treasury bonds. After the "ultra" dovish comments from the Fed Chair Janet Yellen, emerging market bonds rallied after suit. With a the local monetary board policy likely to remain on hold in the 2nd quarter due to its leeway to respond to external challenges, markets continued to chase yields as the local bond yield curve flattened.

March inflation of 1.1% came out in line with market expectations and within BSP's forecast range. Higher food, alcoholic and tobaccos and miscellaneous inflation account for the higher inflation rate relative to the February headline inflation rate of 0.9%. The 1Q average inflation rate was 1.1%.

Meanwhile, the implementation of the Interest Rate Corridor is targeted to start by 2Q 2016. The final details for this new system for steering money market rates towards central bank target/policy rate will come out 15 days prior to the official start.
