OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Elections and corporate action frenzy overtook the market as we saw a surge of 3.4% for the country's index in the month of May. Our relatively clean and peaceful elections has been a boon for the market as foreign flows rose by an additional US $ 285M, though this may also be attributed to market moving actions by a few of the country's largest names. We saw JG Summit offer US $250 worth to the market, the telco industry get shaken up with rivals Globe Telecom and PLDT acquiring San Miguel's telco assets to return to a duopoly, PLDT selling its stake in Meralco for the acquisition and GT Capital essentially trade in its stake in Global Business Power for shares in Metro Pacific with cash considerations in the deal. The whirlwind of transactions has caused renewed interest and a catalyst for names, something the market needed to trade at such lofty valuations as corporate earnings have not been spectacular.

The market may rebalance in light of the new transactions that have occurred and the various indications that the President-elect Rodrigo Duterte and his presumptive cabinet have been making over the past few weeks. Due to this, we expect volatility to persist. We are maintaining our general strategy of staying nimble by concentrating on more liquid names as we rebalance given market conditions.
