OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The market range traded over the month and ended slightly lower at 7212, -0.2% compared to the prior month. Outflows once again brought the market lower with the YTD position at USD 97m outflow. With corporate earnings coming in line generally speaking, we may continue seeing the market move sideways as a whole and more swings on a per name basis. Names that disappoint in the earnings should expect investors to punish the stock such as Cemex that underperformed consensus targets. Those that surprise in either earnings like Globe and Meralco or for other reasons like Puregold's index inclusion serve as catalyst for some fund managers to ride the momentum before locking in gains.

Foreign flows continue to look like the biggest determinant of stock performance as passive funds and ETFs continue to drive the market's direction. We are still awaiting a catalyst such as the passage of the first tax reform package given that earnings are generally in-line. We have rotated our holdings and plan to remain nimble with the ability to deploy into or take profit on liquid names.
